PEOPLE OFTEN ASK US WHY WE ARE VEGAN: Animal agriculture is responsible for 20-33% of all fresh water consumption worldwide. More than 6 million animals are killed for human consumption every hour. Animal agriculture is responsible for up to 91% of the destruction of the Amazon forest. 1 to 2 acres of rainforest are cleared every second to make space for livestock. 13.6 million kilograms of antibiotics are used for livestock in the United States per year, to prevent the spread of diseases despite the unhygienic conditions of crowded factory farms. The amount is nearly four times the quantity of antibiotics sold annually for human consumption. The influence of industry lobbyists has skewed federal nutritional guidelines, which advise eating more meat than what science actually advises. Each day, a person who eats a vegan diet saves 1,100 gallons of water, 45 pounds of grain, 30 sq ft of forested land, 20 lbs CO2 equivalent and one animal's life. MAKES SENSE EH?

(It's also easier and not as grim to wash up vegan pots innit.)
